

ColdFusion + Ext JS Position: Los Angeles

Posted At : July 18, 2012 8:59 AM | Posted By : Cutter

Related Categories: Jobs, ColdFusion, ExtJS

This was forwarded to me yesterday. Anyone who might be interested, ping me on the contact form and I'll forward you the details:

ColdFusion Developer will be responsible for the development of financial reporting systems. He/She will also develop detailed system design and programming specifications, support daily business activity by providing technical support of systems and regularly meet with the IT project lead to review progress and problems related to the job. Additionally he/she will design intuitive and effective UIs using modern client-side technologies, including AJAX, Sencha Ext JS, and other JavaScript libraries.

ColdFusion developer with 5 years+ experience. Knowledge of ColdFusion CFC components, and MVC frameworks, and current feature set in ColdFusion 9.

Knowledge of (Sencha/4.1) Ext JS

Excellent knowledge of JavaScript, HTML, CSS, Web services, and importing Web-based data to Excel.

Good written and verbal communication skills.

Maintains a solid knowledge of information system software development life cycle and quality assurance

Demonstrates proficiency in systems analysis of business requirements.

Good knowledge of relational databases and SQL, experience with Oracle including writing stored procedures, triggers, views etc?